- c) a list of published works or a list of results of other specialised activity in relation to the study programme the applicant applies for or expert's opinions related to such works and activities
- d) dissertation thesis outline (project)
- e) document proving payment of the fee (by wire transfer!) of EUR 50 (EUR 30 in case of electronic application) for covering the costs connected with the admission procedure for one or all study programmes.

The payment instructions will be given after the e-application is submitted through "eprihlas" portal.

The fee is not refunded in case of withdrawal of application for university study. The registered applicants will be sent information on the admission procedure and the admission exam not later than 14 days prior the date thereof.

An electronic form of the application with necessary attachments is preferred.

5. The admission exam will be held before the admission board consisting of not less than three members out of which one is usually the supervisor of the published topic of the dissertation thesis. The admission board consists of its chair and not less than two members appointed by the Dean with the consent of the study field committee. If it is the admission procedure of an applicant for a topic offered by an external educational institution, the admission board will also include a representative of the external educational institution.
6. The admission exam is oral and its content includes the following:
 - a) discussion related to the presented project in connection with the topic, methods of research and anticipated research results (maximum 50 points),
 - b) verification of applicant's theoretical and methodological knowledge in the given field of study including the knowledge of specialised literature (maximum 50 points),
7. The admission exam for the study program Social Psychology and Work Psychology (in English) is oral, it is held in English and its content includes the following:
 - a) discussion related to the presented project in connection with the topic, methods of research and anticipated research results (maximum 50 points),
 - b) verification of applicant's theoretical and methodological knowledge in the given field of study including the knowledge of specialised literature (maximum 50 points).
8. The admission board will evaluate the results of the admission exam at a closed meeting. The admission exam is evaluated by points and the applicant may achieve the maximum of 100 points. The achieved number of points is decisive for determining of order of applicants. If the applicant achieves less than 60 points, the applicant fails to pass the admission exam. In case there are several applicants registered for the same topic, their order will be determined based on their success rate at the admission exam. When determining the order, the extent and quality of applicant's specialised works published and the results of his/her specialised activity (e. g. results in competitions of students' scientific and specialised works, etc.) will be taken into account.
9. A record will be made on the result of the admission exam and the order of applicants based on the number of points achieved being its integral part. The board will submit a proposal for admission of a successful applicant to the Dean. If it is a topic offered by an external educational institution, such institution must give its consent to applicant's admission.
10. Faculty of Arts is usually allotted 2 full-time positions for one accredited study programme in one academic year. In case of lower interest of applicants for some study programs or further allotted positions from other faculties, the dean will decide upon their reallocation according to the real need of particular programs, and will subsequently inform corresponding persons responsible for the study programmes.

11. The Dean will decide on applicant's admission based on the results of the admission exam within 30 days from the date of the admission exam in writing. The decision on admission or non-admission for study will be sent to the applicant in writing. If the Dean decides on applicant's admission the decision will also include supervisor's name and the topic of the dissertation thesis. The written decision must inter alia include the statement, justification, instruction on the possibility to file a request for review of the decision and it will be served to the applicant in person. The request for review of the decision on nonadmission for study may be filed at the Rector of the Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice by virtue of Section 58 (6) of Act No. 131/2002 Coll. on Universities.
12. The admitted applicant becomes a student of the doctoral study on the date of enrolment to be determined by the Dean.
