European Credit Transfer System - some words about it

The European Community promotes inter-university co-operation as a means of improving the quality of education for the benefit of students and higher education institutions, and student mobility is a predominant element of that inter-university co-operation. The Erasmus programme clearly demonstrates that studying abroad can be a particularly valuable experience as it is not only the best way to learn about other countries, ideas, languages and cultures; increasingly it is also an important element in academic and professional career development.

The recognition of studies and diplomas is a prerequisite for the creation of an Open European area of education and training where students and teachers can move without obstacles. That is why the European Credit Transfer System (ECTS) was developed in a pilot scheme established within the Erasmus programme as a means of improving academic recognition for study abroad. The external evaluation of ECTS has demonstrated the potential of the system and the European Commission has decided to include ECTS in its proposal for the Socrates programme, in particular in Chapter I on higher education (Erasmus). ECTS is now moving from its restricted pilot stage towards a much wider use as an element of the European dimension in higher education.

ECTS provides an instrument to create transparency, to build bridges between institutions and to widen the choices available to students. The system makes it easier for institutions to recognize the learning achievements of students through the use of commonly understood measurements, credits and grades, and it also provides a means to interpret national systems of higher education. ECTS is based on three core elements:

- information (on study programmes and student achievement)
- mutual agreement (between the partner institutions and the student)
- and the use of ECTS credits (to indicate student workload).

These three core elements are made operational through the use of three key documents:

- the information package
- the application form/learning agreement
- and the transcript of records

Most of all, ECTS is made operational by students, teachers and institutions who want to make study abroad an integral part of the educational experience.

In itself, ECTS in no way regulates the content, structure or equivalence of study programmes. These are issues of quality, which have to be determined by the higher education institutions themselves when establishing a satisfactory basis for co-operation agreements, bilaterally or multilaterally. The code of good practice called ECTS provides those actors with tools to create transparency and to facilitate academic recognition.

ECTS credits are a numerical value (from 1 till 60) allocated to course units to describe the student workload required to complete them. They reflect the quantity of work each course unit requires in relation to the total quantity of work necessary to complete a full year of academic study at the institution, that is, lectures, seminars, private study, in the library or at home, and examinations or other assessment activities. ECTS is thus based on a full student workload and not limited to contact hours only.

ECTS credits are a relative rather than an absolute measure of student workload. They only specify how much of a year's workload a course unit represents at the institution or department allocating the credits. In ECTS 60 credits represents the workload of an academic year of study and normally 30 credits for a semester and 20 credits for a term. ECTS credits ensure that the programme will be reasonable in terms of workload for the period of study abroad.

General information

A. General information about Slovakia

A.1. History of Slovakia

Archaeology has demonstrated the existence of man in the territory of Slovakia from the Middle Paleolithic Era (200 000-35000 B.C). Deposited in the museum in Poprad is a unique find from Ganovce - a travertine casting of the skull of a Neanderthal man. In the Bronze Age (1900-700 B.C.) the territory of Slovakia was a significant European center of bronze production.

The Slavs came to the territory of Slovakia during the fifth century. They lived in a kind of symbiosis with the Avars who came to the same region a bit later. They took part in joint expeditions against the Franks, Langobards, Byzantines even though the Slavs were suppressed by the Avars. Indeed, skirmishes among them provided the occasion for the development of the first important state organization among the western Slavs, the Empire of Samo, which ruled the territory for thirty-five years.

Only after one and half century do reports reveal the existence of a further state in the region - the principality of Nitra which was governed by Prince Pribina. At the beginning of the third decade of the ninth century, Pribina was expelled by Mojmir, a prince from neighboring Moravia. Through this union of the Old Moravian and the Nitra principalities developed Great Moravia. The Great Moravian Empire encompassed the lands of modern Slovakia and Moravia as well as parts of Hungary and Austria.

In the organization of society Great Moravia was an equal partner with its neighbour to the west, the Frankish Empire. They maintained lively commercial and cultural contacts. But military confrontation between them also developed and called forth the attempts of the rulers of the Frankish Empire to extend their sphere of influence to the east. This also influenced the most significant cultural initiative of the era of Great Moravia - the acceptance of Christianity.

Christianity first penetrated the territory of Slovakia from the Frankish Empire already during the era before the emergence of the Great Moravian Empire. In 828 or 829 Prince Pribina had a stone church in Nitra consecrated by the Archbishop of Salzburg. In 863 the brothers Constantine and Method headed a mission to Great Moravia at the invitation of Prince Rastislav who wished to free himself from the influence of the Franks and to strengthen his own independence. They devised the oldest Slavonic alphabet - Glagolitic and translated liturgical books into Old Church Slavonic. At the beginning of the tenth century, Great Moravia, weakened by wars with its neighbours, fell to the onslaught of the Magyars.

In 1467, a university began instruction in Bratislava, the Academia Istropolitana, founded according to the model of the University of Bologna by King Mathias Corvinus Hunyadi. In 1536 Bratislava became the capital city of the Hungarian Monarchy. It was the seat of the central administrative offices; there sat the parliament until 1848.

Once again Košice became a center for the administration of the eastern part of the Hungarian Monarchy and there the ruler also founded a university in 1657. The reforms of Maria Theresa (1740-1780) and those of her son, Joseph II (1780-1790), in the spirit of Enlightenment, formed the basis of a modern state administration, tax and transportation system, army and schools.

In 1787, Anton Bernolak (1762-1813) first codified Slovak as a literary language which, however, was utilized only among Catholics. It was the next generation of national revivalists, led by Ludovit Štur (1815-1856) which overcame this division and discord concerning the codification of the Slovak language. Štur's Slovak created the basis of modern standard literary Slovak.

On 28 October 1918 the Czecho-Slovak National Committee in Prague proclaimed the existence of Czecho-Slovakia. On 30 October not yet having received information concerning events in Prague, the Slovak National Council also declared, in Martin, its desire to join Slovakia with the Czech lands in one common state. The Czecho-Slovak Republic was one of the many successor states of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

During the revolution of 1989 all of the opposition forces spontaneously joined together. Their differentiation into various political parties began gradually. November 1989 enabled the establishment of a democratic government, the restoration of civil freedoms and human rights.

In September 1992, the Slovak National Council accepted the establishment of the Slovak Republic. On January 1st, 1993 a new state appeared in the world history. Michal Kovac was appointed as the first president of the Slovak Republic, the Slovak army was formed, an independent currency was created and so were representations abroad. Slovakia quickly gained diplomatic recognition from the most important nations, it was accepted into the United Nations (January 19, 1993), into the Council of Europe (June 30, 1993), into World Trade Organization, into International Monetary Fund, into International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, Bank for International Settlements, in 2000 Slovakia obtained OECD full-fledged membership and many other international organizations.

A.3. History of Košice

The City of Košice has a rich and reputable history. Though the first written records of Košice date from 1230, archaeological investigations attest to the fact that the area around Košice was settled as far back as the Stone Age. Due to the support of Košice for the King Karol Robert from Anjou, at the Rozhanovce Battle in 1312, the town was granted a number of rights and privileges which stimulated the rapid development of Košice. In 1369, the son of Karol Robert, Ludovit the Great, issued a document providing a coat-of-arms for Košice, this being among the oldest documents of its kind in Europe. And in this same year, on the 7th May the armorial warrant was granted to Košice by Louis the Great. To remind this important date a new tradition was created - Days of Košice.

The most significant monument accounting for the immense growth and importance of Košice during the Middle Ages seems to have been the magnificent Gothic cathedral from the 14-15th centuries, built in the town centre. Currently, it is the most important building, as well as the pride of Košice, being a point of interest for every visitor coming to Košice. Apart from the Gothic Saint Elizabeth's Cathedral, there are also other significant historical points of interest, e.g. the Tower of Saint Urban, St. Michael's Chapel and almost 500 other objects of art in the city centre.

On the 6th February, 1657, Benedikt Kisdý, Bishop of the Eger Bishopric by a decree, issued in a nearby Jasov, established an academy following an example of the University of Trnava (1635, studium univerzale seu academiam) and he passed it to the Rule of Jesuits. University comprised three faculties - philosophical, theological and linguistic. Three years later, namely on 6th August, 1660, Monarch Leopold I., by the edict called Golden Bull granted the academy of Košice the status of university with such privileges as pertained to the universities of Koln, Vienna, Olomouc, Graz, Trnava and Ingolstadt.

At the beginning of the 18th century Košice saw a decline of economy as a consequence of the absolutist government and centralising of the decisive rights to Vienna which did not last long.

International Peace Marathon was established in 1924 as the Marathon of Košice. Its tradition has been lasting to the present, so that this is oldest European and the second in world (first is Boston's Marathon) marathon, which each year in October hosts the best runners from all around the world.

Today, Košice is the second largest city in the Slovak Republic, the population of which reaches the number of more than 260.000 inhabitants. At present the city of Košice is the seat of the Constitutional Court of Slovakia. In the centre of the city there are located banks and modern shopping centres, all of them in walking distance. The development of Košice has also been supported by the construction of significant factories and plants, the largest among them being the U.S.Steel which is currently the largest metallurgical complex in Slovakia.

The only cold geyser on the European continent, geyser in Herlany, found in 1875, spurts water every 32-34 hours for about 25 minutes up to 15 metres. Zadiel Valley with nearby Krasna Horka Castle and Betliar House; the water reservoir of Ruzin and some caves are further tips for the weekend.

A.4.1. History and presence of University

The Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice (UPJŠ) in Košice, established in 1959, has its predecessor in the University of Košice (Universitatis Cassoviensis) which was founded by the Bishop of Eger, Benedictus Kishdy on 6th February, 1657. On August 6, 1660 a Golden Bull was granted by Leopold I., the Austrian Emperor and King of Hungary, on the basis of which the University of Košice was officially established. It was given all rights, customs, and privileges as the other oldest European universities at that time.

The last existing form of the University of Košice ceased to exist in 1921. After World War II., the university humanity education was renewed by opening the Faculty of Medicine in Košice. This process culminated in 1959 when the Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice was established in Košice. University is named after an outstanding personality of the Slovak history, Pavol Jozef Šafárik (1795-1861), who was a scientist, poet, linguist, ethnographer, archaeologist and educator. Later, other faculties and work places were gradually incorporated into the University.

The current structure of the University includes four faculties: Faculty of Law, Faculty of Medicine, Faculty of Science, Faculty of Public Administration and affiliated work places - Botanical Garden, Christian Academy, University Library, Computer Centre, Department of Languages, Department of Physical Education and Prevention Centre.

Faculty of Science offers for students both Single (one-subject) and Joint (two-subject) degree programmes. Undergraduates admitted to the Faculty are internal students that read for their BSc. degree (Bachelor of Science), which lasts three years followed by two years MGr. degree study. Postgraduate students undertake research and courses leading to the award of the Ph.D. degree that are three -year internal and five-year external form.

Faculty of Medicine provides 6-year General Medicine and 6-year Dentistry courses being awarded the degree Doctor of General Medicine (the equivalent to the M.D. degree). There is also the possibility of taking 3-year Bachelor degree courses in Nursing.

The new founded Faculty of Public Administration provides 5-year Mgr. degree study in the field of public administration.

Apart from the above work places, there are several other university centres at the University's disposal, namely the recreation and training centres at Lake Zemplínska Šírava, in Opátka, Danišovce, the Publishing Centre, and the Halls of Residence for 3,000 students.

The activities of the University are governed by the following organs of academic autonomy:

- The Rector of University - Prof.Dr.Vladimir Babčák, CSc.
- Vicerectors
- The Academic Senate of University
- The Scientific Council of University

Outside the University, all of its faculties work as relatively independent legal entities. The structure of individual faculties is analogous to the structure of the University and follows from the University Act as well as from the statutes approved by the faculty academic senates.

The total number of students in the academic year 2002/2003 has been approximately 4,500.

A.5.1. General information

The law study in Košice was reopened in 1970 as a subsidiary of the Faculty of Law of the Comenius University in Bratislava. In 1973 the Faculty of Law was established as a part of the Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice on the basis of the abovementioned subsidiary.

Currently, the faculty of Law has its 9 departments provides a complete five-year, first-degree academic education in the field of Law in the form of a regular fulltime study as well as that of external-degree courses. Having been conferred first academic degree of „Magister“ (Mgr.), after successful passing state final examinations, graduates might advance their knowledge in postgraduate courses which lasts one-two years, leading to an academic degree of „Juris utriusque Doctor“ (JUDr.), awarded after submitting student´s dissertation and passing a postgraduate examination.

The Faculty also offers a doctoral postgraduate study (Ph.D. - Philosophiae Doctor degree) in the fields of Constitutional and Administrative Law, Commercial Law, and from academic year 2003/2004 in Criminal Law, Tax Law and Civil Law.

Further development of the Faculty, namely of its educational process is not possible without gradual eliminating a gap between the academic and professional skills´acquisition. This is the reason why the Faculty has concluded agreements on co-operation with the Government of the Slovak Republic, Department of Justice of the Slovak Republic, Department of Interior of the Slovak Republic, involving various forms of collaboration, and also including the obligation of these bodies to enable professional training of our graduates and to employ them in respective departments when they have proved satisfactory competence. And, many our teachers are working like judges (or advisors) in the Constitutional Court of Slovak Republic.

The Faculty of Law prepares its graduates for several different juridical occupations like judge, attorney, advocate, counsel, civil servant etc. The study is oriented to the whole field of law. It is a general law study. Students can specialize by choosing selected practice and the topic of the diploma thesis, and choosing obligatory optional or selective subjects.

The educational process of the Faculty is designed to help adequate students´ self-profiling in order to equip them with a potential mobility within the University or other domestic as well as foreign academic institutions (programme SOCRATES/ERASMUS) enabling the qualification of fulfilled studying duties of undergraduates. The central feature of the educational process of the Faculty, the training of professional skills, is considered to be most relevant also as far as the integration ambitions of the Republic concerns.

Research activities of the Faculty create prerequisites for first-rate educational process and publication of the accomplishments represents the Faculty in public. Excellent results achieved in the research field condition the growth of research-academic and research-educational qualifications of our pedagogues, which consequently entitles the Faculty to expand the scope of its competence.

In academic year 2003/2004 Faculty will open in 1st form credit system study.

B. The 1. Form Credit System Study Arrangement of the Faculty of Law, University of Pavel Jozef Šafárik, Košice
The academic year 2003/2004

Proposed on the basis of Sec. 25 par. 1,2 of the Pavel Jozef Šafárik University Study Arrangement, Košice ( UPJŠ Košice Statute, inset No.1) by the Dean of the Faculty, the academic senate approved the Faculty's study arrangement as follows:

Sec.1

Credit system of study

/1/ Credit system of study enables students' charge connected with completion of study programme units – subjects, to be classified by means of credits, supports students' mobility, provides students an opportunity to participate in creating their individual study plans.

/2/ Credits mean numeral significances of subjects expressing the amount of effort necessary for successful completion of subjects. Standard students' charge is represented by 60 credits per one year, 30 of them crediting one semester. One credit equals one sixtieth of standard students' charge per one academic year.

/3/ Students are credited after successful completion of a certain subject on one occasion only during the whole study.

/4/ Credits for successfully completed subject are accumulated. Required number of credits structured according to study programme is one of the conditions to continue studying after check stage of study. The end of the first year of study represents the first check stage. Students are obliged to accumulate minimum of 50 credits to be allowed to continue studying.

/5/ Students' credits accumulated during study at other college or university either in Slovakia or abroad may be accepted according to the certificate issued by the college or university mentioned.

Study programme subjects and education

/1/ Educational process includes different forms ( lectures, seminars, practical lessons, etc. ) proportionally divided within a certain subject by study programme.

/2/ Each subject having its own code and title covers one semester. Subject Information Leaflet embraces basic characteristics of a certain subject as follows:

- a) the credit number and the number of lessons involved
- b) a guarantee and a teacher
- c) prerequisites
- d) the conditions of successful completion of a subject and the way of classification of students
- e) the contents of a subject
- f) check stages within a subject

/3/ Subjects included in study programme are divided into:

- a) obligatory ones - which are necessary to be completed to complete the whole study programme successfully.
- b) obligatory optional - altogether with obligatory ones these enable students to adapt study plan to their individual interests. In the first year of study students are required to enlist at least five obligatory optional subjects.
- c) optional or selective ones - other subjects included in study programme of either the Faculty or other faculties and universities.

/4/ According to succession subjects can be divided into:

- a) non-successive subjects - these do not require previous successful completion of other subjects. All the first form subjects belong to non-successive subjects.
- b) successive subjects - successful completion of prerequisites is required.

/5/ Educational activities comprise lectures, seminars, excursions, practical lessons, colloquia, checked self-study.

/6/ One or more forms can be used to teach one subject. The forms are selected by the subject teacher unless study programme defines concrete forms to be used.

/7/ At the beginning of each semester students are provided syllabi and the lists of study literature proposed by teachers. The teachers are obliged to declare the time and the ways of continuous checking acquired knowledge and skills of students.

Sec.3

Study programme and study plan

/1/ Study programme is a set of educational activities as well as rules successful completion of which guarantees university education.

/2/ Study plan is arranged by a certain student individually or with a supervisor's assistance. It is to contain subjects included in study programme to respect the rules of study programme as well as this study arrangement.

/3/ A study supervisor offers a version of recommended study plan during matriculation. The plan's structure guarantees that accomplishing its conditions students successfully complete their study in a standard span.

Sec.4

Matriculation and subject completion

/1/ Students are matriculated at the beginning of each year of study. Matriculating students declare the amounts of study programme charge which they intend to complete in two semesters.

/2/ Each obligatory subject not completed successfully yet, may be enlisted. The second unsuccessful completion of subject means expelling a student from study.

/3/ Enlisted, however not completed obligatory option may be enlisted again or it may be replaced by any other obligatory option. The second unsuccessful completion of subject means expelling a student from study.

/4/ Previously enlisted, however not completed optional subject may be enlisted again or it may be replaced by any other optional subject. In case students have accumulated adequate number of credits, no optional subject is required.

/5/ If any obligatory option or optional subject is selected to replace any previously chosen, however not completed one, it is qualified as a repeated one.

/6/ To accomplish conditions for further study students have to select the subjects with required credit value and make a suitable choice among obligatory subjects, obligatory options and optional ones.

Sec.5

Matriculation

/1/ Matriculating students declare their interest in subjects which they want to complete in the following academic year. Students are obliged to take part in matriculation personally.

/2/ Administrative matriculation is held after enlisting subjects according to an academic year schedule.

/3/ Neither matriculated in five days after official matriculation, nor apologized in written form a student is expelled from study. The student is informed by the Dean in 15 days term since that moment.

/4/ With the Dean's approval students of other faculties or universities may select the subjects to complete at the Faculty. Students may be refused in case of not completed prerequisites or because of the lack of vacancies.

/5/ The Administration Department matriculates students on condition that their personal study plans are approved. ( The Adm. Dep. checks students' accomplished conditions for enlisting subjects, checks vacancies within a certain subject, checks the numbers of students entering different subjects)

Sec.6

Checking study

/1/ Continuous study check is the way of check used during educational stage of semester. It has different forms, f.e. check questions, written tests, self-study tasks, semester work, seminar papers, etc. Besides, at the end of semester the form of semester exam is used.

/2/ The ratio of different forms of study check within a certain subject is included in Subject Information Leaflet.

/3/ At the beginning of any semester teachers involved declare the concrete way of study check including the data as well as the way of classification.

/4/ On condition that a certain subject is only credited in the end of semester, students are obliged to accomplish the conditions for crediting before the end of the exam period of the semester concerned.

Sec.7

Study results classification

/1/ To classify the study results six-grade scale is used at the Faculty:

- a) A - excellent ( excellent results, numbered 1 )
- b) B - very good ( above the average results, numbered 1,5 )
- c) C - good ( average results, numbered 2 )
- d) D - satisfactory ( acceptable results, numbered 2,5 )
- e) E - passable ( minimum results, numbered 3 )
- f) FX - unsatisfactory ( more work required, numbered 4 )

/2/ Classification ( a mark, a classification grade ) expresses the quality of acquired knowledge and skills in an accordance with the aim of a certain subject as included in Subject Information Leaflet.

/3/ In case a student is classified grades A to E, the subject is successfully completed. Only successfully completed subjects are credited.

/4/ In case of FX exam classification a student may repeat the exam twice. In case of a repeatedly selected subject a student may repeat the exam a single time.

/5/ To rate students' total results a value study average is used. The products of the number of credits and numerical classification according par. 1 of all subjects selected by a student in one academic year are counted. The result is divided by the total number of student's credits required in a given period. Subjects classified FX are taken into account as well.

Sec.8

Final enactment

/1/ In case of study and classification matters not dealt with in this Study Arrangement, these may undergo The Study And Exam Arrangement for forms 2 to 5 ( a non-credit study ) in a suitable way.

/2/ This Study Arrangement comes into existence being approved by the Faculty's academic senate as an obligatory arrangement for the academic year 2003/2004.
